Whether the awards you require are for professional lifeguard provision, for club activities, groups or employees working around water sites such as canals, reservoirs and water treatment plant or you are providing outdoor water based attractions, WYMS can provide a suitable level of training to help reduce the risk of injury in and around water. Not all the awards need delegates to enter the water; a water safety essential is accident prevention and our training courses will highlight areas of risk and methods of reducing these —making working in / around water safer for everyone.

With are fully comprehensive First Aid awards delivered to the Resuscitation Council UK guidelines and underpinned through current professional medical practice there is no wonder that WYMS is rapidly becoming the training provider of choice for many small and medium size organisations that require high quality training at competitive prices. We can compliment all our water safety awards with a recognized First Aid award.

WYMS with our supplier, Cardiac Science, can provide AED defibrillator packages which include defibrillator devices, initial and on going training. Why not take advantage of our “One Stop Shop” approach to quality training services.
